MECHANICAL ARTS

MECHANICAL ARTS BUILDING OF HIGH SCHOOL—WHAT IS EXPECTED OF IT

(By A. R. Oliver, M. E.)

The people of this city have sanctioned, through the executive body of the high school, very completely equipped buildings; the one of which I shall write is the mechanical arts building on Louise street.

This modern and thoroughly equipped building is almost completed for school use and is open to visitors at any time of the day between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. Would the people of Glendale, and especially the parents of those young men who participated in this work, feel any pride to know that every piece of machinery, timbers, line shafting, pulleys, forges, power hammer, etc., was laid down, shafts lined up and everything completed in a workmanlike manner solely by these young men and their instructor? Do you not think it is worth a visit now that you know this?

With the slight knowledge you have of what is in this building the question arises and naturally enough, why whatever are they going to do with this equipment? It is for the purpose of answering these questions that I am writing this article.

I think perhaps it would be interesting for you to know something of what is taught in the mechanical drawing room. The introduction of manual training called for a new interpretation of the function of drawing and I believe there has been a movement amounting to almost a revolution in the method of teaching art. In the place of rules, and by teachers, regardless of their qualifications for the work, there has been substituted the artist who carried something of a reality—some of the spirit of art and truth. Drawing is one of our greatest means of expression, and industrial art has taken the place of much of the thoughtless and useless copying of classic abstractions. It is needless for me to dwell to any length on this subject; suffice to say, it has been of untold value to the children of the grades in giving them partial relief from that process of word learning, which was so much overdone in the schools of years ago, and in fact is in vogue in some schools to this day.

Mechanical drawing, like art and free-hand drawing, has had a most interesting evolution. From the mere thoughtless copying of details, which has little value beyond the practice given in handling the drafting instruments, the mechanical drawing course has so developed that it now combines several very distinct functions: First, it furnishes the training in using drafting instruments; second, it gives to the student the interpretative knowledge so necessary in making and applying constructional drawings, which of necessity precede all their exercises in the mechanical arts, of which they form a very essential part; third, it gives practice in free-hand sketching of objects to be constructed or to be remembered—a function that cannot be dispensed with when you need a ready and effective means of expression and communication in the making of plans, specifications, etc.; fourth, it furnishes practice in constructive and decorative design which could be applied in the workshops; fifth, it gives a development course in descriptive geometry by a series of logical steps, which makes this a very easy instead of a difficult subject. A thorough knowledge of that language in which designer and draftsman express themselves will aid the pupil in many things where abstract reasoning is necessary.

Our forge shop is as well equipped for this branch of the mechanical arts course as any shop in Southern California. This work generally occupies the student's time for perhaps one and a half hours per day, five days per week, and is a subject that will give free play to all the student's faculties, and is the most valuable part of the course. With hammer, tongs, anvil and a forge fire the student must express himself through a refractory iron medium. The work requires concentrated attention, alertness, quick and steady movement, vigor and the necessary physical strength. The life at the forge is stimulating, interesting and somewhat strenuous. The student must "strike while the iron is hot." Also he must strike right or he will not gain the desired results. All the exercises are practical and useful articles; thus no great difficulty is experienced in securing the interest from the start.

From the construction of small articles the student gradually works to the more advanced forging, until such times as he becomes proficient in this branch of the high school training. The educational value of the work in the forge shop is gen-

VOTE FOR QUEEN

CANDIDATES FOR GLENDALE'S FESTIVAL QUEEN HAVE BEEN SELECTED

Miss Barbara Mitchell, choice of Glendale lodge B. P. O. E. No. 1289.

Miss Fredonia Borthick, choice of Glen Eyrle chapter O. E. S. No. 237.

Interest is waxing high in the contest which will decide who shall reign as queen of Glendale's great Festival of Fruits and Flowers to be held on May 27, 28 and 29. Announcement is just made of the candidates aspiring to this honor. Miss Barbara Mitchell, chosen by the Glendale B. P. O. Elks, is a member much beloved of the younger social set of North Glendale. Miss Mitchell is exceptionally pretty, and sweet, and has an envied reputation in amateur theatrical work. With charm and decided ability she has starred in the part of Rosalind in "As You Like It," given at Occidental college last fall. With equal ability she carried the leading part in the Spanish romance staged at La Ramada last fall under the auspices of the Glendale Tuesday Afternoon club, and her triumph as leading lady in "Polly of the Circus" recently played in Glendale was pronounced. Miss Mitchell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell of Kenneth road. Mr. Mitchell is a prominent member of the Glendale B. P. O. Elks. Mrs. Mitchell is a member of the Tuesday Afternoon club and the Foothill club of North Glendale.

Miss Mitchell's beauty and charm are closely rivaled by that of the candidate of the Glen Eyrle chapter of O. E. S.—Miss Fredonia Borthick. Miss Borthick is a very pretty girl, athletic and vivacious, earnest and beloved by young and old. She is tall and queenly. Miss Borthick is the present worthy matron of the Glen Eyrle chapter of O. E. S. Until recently Miss Borthick was a teacher in the Tropico schools, where she was highly successful and greatly esteemed. At present she is a teacher in the Los Angeles schools. Her many friends in Tropico, as well as in Glendale, where she resides, are waging an active campaign and assert with confidence their idea of who will be the successful queen of Glendale's Festival of Fruits and Flowers. The Glendale Elks tell a different tale, and promise that the contest shall be an interesting one.

Miss Mitchell and Miss Borthick will be formally presented to the public at the big "booster tea" to be given Saturday afternoon and evening of this week at the home of Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, 106 Orange street.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA ORATORICAL AT GLENDALE

Glendale will be host to the high school orators of Southern California Friday evening, May 14. The contest will be held in the high school auditorium. Among the schools to be represented in this affair are: Pasadena, Long Beach, Huntington Beach, Santa Ana, besides a number of other schools. James Purman Bennett will represent Glendale high school.

GLENDALE IN FIESTA PARADE

Glendale is well represented in the big Fiesta de las Flores in Los Angeles today. The many Glendale people who viewed the parade this morning were proud of the Glendale float which was very unique and pretty representing Overland trains bringing people to Los Angeles and the red cars bringing the people to Glendale. This float was followed by a rose-covered automobile driven by Mrs. Oliver O. Clark and carrying Mrs. Cable, Mrs. Weaver, Mrs. Pearce and Miss Phillips. The Chamber of Commerce was represented by J. A. Pirtle, J. W. Usilton, T. W. Watson, Mayor O. A. Lane and A. T. Cowan, who also rode in a car covered with roses. The White Star Patrol of the Glendale Elks lodge in their white and purple uniforms was a pretty part of the parade and the Glendale municipal band did its part in sounding the praises of Glendale.

Dr. L. N. Rudy surprised the Glendale contingent with his offering, which was a very elaborate and beautiful float in the form of a boat. This was entirely covered with the blossoms of the mountain yucca, forty of the big spikes being used to cover the car. At the corners were large cone-shaped specimens of the honey plant, which is a very rare one. The float represented "Peace in the United States," the dove of peace hovering at the front part of the float, while Keith Rudy, in the form of a miniature Uncle Sam, waved Old Glory in the rear. Dr. Rudy drove his car and was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. McNitt of Eagle Rock.

IN LEGISLATIVE HALLS

DOINGS OF THE PAST WEEK UNDER THE BIG DOME AT SACRAMENTO

SACRAMENTO, May 3.—The most interesting fight in the senate the past week was over bill No. 1258, which placed the production of crude oil and petroleum under the jurisdiction of the railroad commission, giving the commission authority to not only limit but prohibit production in accordance with the demands of the market. The bill ostensibly was aimed at what it pleased to call economic waste, to prevent which it was designed to restrict the storage of oil within the limits of the demand of the market. Great interest was taken in this measure by all oil producing territories, the proponents consisting largely of the smaller companies known as the Independent Oil Producers' association.

Rumor has it that the bill was drawn in the office of Senator Carr of Los Angeles. Senator Carr is a member of a firm of Los Angeles attorneys comprising the senator, Howard J. Fish, speaker pro tem of the assembly, and Francis J. Heney. There was a determined fight made both for and against the bill by earnest members of the "third house." The bill was reported out of committee April 26th, with the recommendation that it "do pass" and a minority report "do not pass" by Senator John W. Ballard of Los Angeles. The bill was given the "rush act" and made a special order for Thursday at 11 a. m. Discussion of the measure occupied the greater part of the day and a vote was not reached until late in the evening. Senators Wolfe, Ballard, Purkitt, Owens, Anderson and others spoke against the bill. Senator Carr and Senator Mott urged its passage. On roll call the bill was defeated by a vote of 21 to 12. The vote on the bill was as follows:

Ayes—Benedict, Benson, Birdsell, Brown, Butler, Carr, Jones, Kehoe, King, Luce, Mott and Thompson.

Noes—Anderson, Ballard, Beban, Cohn, Crowley, Finn, Flaherty, Flint, Gerdes, Lyon, Maddux, Owens, Purkitt, Rush, Scott, Shearer, Slater, Strowbridge, Stuckenbruck, Tyrrell and Wolfe.

At the night session the senate passed bill No. 916, which places the production of oil under the jurisdiction of the state mining bureau, where it is claimed to properly belong.

In the assembly the general appropriation bill was passed after Chairman Wright of the ways and means committee had been subjected to a running fire of questions. The bill carries a total of $15,369,370, an increase of $2,368,730 over the appropriation of 1913. Chairman Wright explained this increase by saying that at the last session there were a number of special appropriation bills which this year had been taken from the special appropriation class and placed in the general appropriation bill. Furthermore, that the new water commission, the blue sky commission, housing and immigration, and other new commissions had added nearly $750,000 to the expenses of the state.

Assemblyman Bartlett of Los Angeles criticized the bill and said that he was compelled to vote for it owing to lack of time for further consideration and from the further fact that he realized the condition of the state treasury and that the money was needed. He wanted to know why an appropriation of over $400,000 was asked for the San Quentin prison when during the month of January the assembly had passed an appropriation of over $200,000 for this same prison as an emergency measure. Chairman Wright explained that the emergency measure of over $200,000 was necessary for the prison to replenish its revolving fund for the manufacture of jute bags; that the prison had used this fund for general purposes and it was necessary to replenish it by the emergency measure of January.

Bartlett wanted to know what would become of the fund realized from the sale of jute bags, which industry the special appropriation will permit the prison to carry on.

Wright replied that it would be returned to the revolving fund and not to the general fund. Other members criticized the bill, notably Dennett of Stanislaus and Spengler and Downing, the Socialist members of Los Angeles. After further criticism and comment on the bill which increased the salaries of numerous heads of departments and not the lesser employees, the bill was passed, nine members voting against it.

Conard's bill regulating jitney busses, classing them as a public utility and declaring that they shall operate only under public franchise granted by municipalities, has met

TROPICO ITEMS

YOUNGER SOCIETY FOLKS ENJOY HOSPITALITY OF IMLERS— OTHER NEWS NOTES

It was truly a merry and jolly party of members of the younger set of society folks of Glendale and Tropico who enjoyed a wicker roast at "Palm Villa" on West Park avenue, the home of Eugene H. Imler, when his sister, Miss Marjorie Imler, when they entertained Saturday evening.

The large and spacious rooms were aglow with roses, roses everywhere, in baskets, low cut bowls and tall graceful vases, which added a fragrance with the masses of white syringa blossoms which were used so effectively in the pretty decorations.

Two original contests were introduced by the young hostess and her brother, assisted by their mother, Mrs. David H. Imler. Twenty-six leaves from an equal number of fruit and ornamental trees, gathered from the Palm Villa gardens, furnished much amusement to the young folks, who, although residents of this prolific Southland, demonstrated that they are somewhat unfamiliar with the leaves of the trees. Miss Cecelia Lyon won the first prize and Miss Catherine Phillips the booby in this interesting contest. The second one was a play on the names of twelve of the most popular books of the present day. In this mental test Samuel S. Perry of Pasadena and Chancellor Livingston of Sunland each won prizes. The third contest was also very amusing, as a number of the guests produced their baby pictures for inspection and identification. In this Howard McGillis and Miss Catherine Phillips each received prizes.

Music and dancing also added to the pleasures of the evening. At 10 o'clock the merry-makers assembled around the long furnace that had been built of bricks and sheet iron under the branches of a huge cypress tree and there enjoyed the wicker roast. The tea garden, bistro and the entire gardens at the rear of the house were brilliantly lighted, which with the fire from the furnace presented a truly interesting picture.

After this feast of roasted wieners and all the accompaniments of a genuine roast, the guests assembled in the house and resumed dancing until 11:30, when they, though loathe to cease their merry-making, bade their host and hostess "good night."

Those who thus enjoyed this May day wicker roast were the Misses Margaret Boucher, Esther Schremp, Evangeline Hunchberger, Waunita Emery, Lillian Schick, Helen Swenson, Ernestine Lyon, Mary Bode, Geo. Van Hazelen, Thomas Phillips, Burna Martin, Merrill Burke, Chancellor Livingston, Paul McGowan, Harry Spink, Robert Cowlin, Frank Hester, Edwin Heacock, William Renshaw, Olin Wilkin, Joyce Dominy, Catherine Phillips, Cecelia Lyon, Pauline Edwell, Dorothy Hunt, Katherine Renshaw, Hope Armstrong, Messrs. Samuel S. Perry of Pasadena, Albert K. Smith of Los Angeles, Kenneth Harrison of Eagle Rock, William Wilson, Earl Brown and Howard McGillis.

As is generally known, the will of James Rich, late mayor of Tropico, creates a life estate in his widow of all his property. The application for an order giving the will judicial effect came up for hearing before Judge Wilbur of the superior court on the 27th. On an examination of the provisions of the will it was held by his honor that the statutory period of ten months should elapse for the payment of claims that may come against the estate before the order could be entered, but without prejudice to the widow's right to continue in the use and enjoyment, management and disposal of the property in full accord with the provisions of the will for the term of her natural life, and with due regard to the deceased husband's expressed wishes.

Mrs. Rich was led into having the will probated, in violation of her husband's explicit directions set forth in the will, on the advice of a lawyer who is no longer the attorney of the estate. She regrets the misstep, but has the consolation of knowing that no harm will come of it, at least to herself and her children.

Mrs. Ella W. Richardson, chairman of the big event with which Tropico will celebrate the completion of the municipal playgrounds on Friday evening, May 7, and her committee, are working very industriously to render the bonfire supper a great financial as well as social success. There will be athletic sports during the afternoon and at 5 o'clock the May pole festivities will occur. The Tropico boy scouts will have full charge of the bonfire. Dr. W. C. Mabry is chairman of the playgrounds and athletic sports. Seats are being erected with a substantial covering to give a seating capacity of four hundred.

GLENDALE WINS, 5-1

COMPTON HIGH MEETS DEFEAT IN AN EIGHTH INNING RALLY FRIDAY

Friday afternoon in a regular league game the Glendale high school baseball team defeated the Compton aggregation by breaking up a tie score of one and one in the eighth inning and pounding over four runs in about as many minutes.

It all happened thusly: The game started amidst a drizzle with a soggy field, a poor handful of doleful umpires and a discouraged looking umpire; and the second inning found the game tied up to a one and one score. It continued for five long, uninteresting periods. When Lukins, Glendale's pitcher, wobbled a little the one inning Compton got its first and only score, Hasty Bidwell went in and the pitchers tightened up and the game was mainly a pitcher's battle. That condition could not last, however, and in the eventful eighth Fuzzy Livingston got a hit; Coole doctored; a wild pitch advanced the pair; then Tom Phillips annexed a two-bagger; Sonny Latter did the same as Phillips; McNutt sacrificed, and Kolts brought Latter home on a little fly. In the interim Livingston, Coole, Tom Phillips and Latter had tripped over the pan and Glendale had tucked the game away to the tune of 5 to 1.

Hasty Bidwell was responsible for Glendale's first run, for as usual he rang the bell for a home run. Tom Phillips also did something remarkable. Out of three times at bat he captured three safe hits. Matty McNutt, who did the backstopping for the locals, ate a peck of dirt—more or less—trying to capture a foul tip. And so ended the sad tale of Compton's defeat.

Methodists Also Winners

Saturday afternoon local baseball fans were entertained at the high school diamond by a clash twixt the Methodists and Presbyterians in the local church league, which resulted in a shut-out victory for the former, score 2-0.

Marple and Hastings did the honors for the winners, while Blakemore and McNutt were the Presbyterian battery.

ARREST UNDER NEW ORDINANCE

The first arrest made under the new city tax ordinance was made this morning, when the U. S. Transfer company's driver was arrested by Policeman Laurence for doing a transfer business in Glendale without a license.

The transfer company is to appear in police court Tuesday morning. The company will more than likely contest the case, as they claim they were not carrying on a transfer business wholly in Glendale and were only delivering goods from Los Angeles. The case will be watched very closely as a great many are anxious to see how it will terminate.

The police department is beginning to feel that they have quite a task on their hands to enforce the different provisions of the ordinance.

A party of prominent members of Al Borak Court No. 75 of D. O. K. K. have returned from Bakersfield, where they went as representatives to the institution of a new court in that city. Among the members who left Saturday on the special were Edward Clarence Shuey, Samuel Rich, Landen Haynes and Walter Anderson of Tropico, M. McKeeber of Glendale, O. C. Lane, Wiley Cole and John Sence of Burbank. The court instituted in Bakersfield will be known as Al Morika No. 176. The local representatives report a most delightful sojourn in Bakersfield and a most cordial welcome accorded them.

Eugene H. Imler entertained with a week-end house party at his home, "Palm Villa" on West Park avenue. Among his out-of-town guests were Mr. Albert Knox Smith of Los Angeles and Mr. Samuel Salisbury Perry of Pasadena, college classmates of young Imler. Other guests were Merrill Burke, Burna Martin and George Van Hazelen of Tropico.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Askeland, the latter formerly Miss Lola Pratt, and Mr. and Mrs. William Pratt are extending congratulations to these four happy people upon the arrival of a fine bouncing twelve-pound boy at their ranch home near Burbank Saturday afternoon.

Miss Eulalia Richardson is entertaining this evening with a charmingly appointed dinner party at her beautiful new home, Central and Riverside drive, complimentary to Miss Myrtle Pulliam, who leaves shortly on an eastern visit.

Mrs. James L. Ritchie of Denver, Colo., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Phillips, has returned from a few weeks' delightful visit in San Francisco.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY OF MR. RHIND—OTHER FOOT- HILL NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McDougall and little son Frank, of Burchett street, motored to Newhall Sunday, spending the day with Mr. McDougall's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Reynolds, at their beautiful ranch home.

Mrs. John Rhind of Arden avenue entertained with a social evening and dancing party last Friday complimentary to Mr. Rhind, who celebrated his birthday on that date. The chosen motif was pink and white Cecil Brunner roses, and lilies, being used throughout the various rooms. At eleven o'clock the guests were seated at a beautifully appointed luncheon table where covers were laid for twenty, the center piece being a handsome basket filled with Cecil Brunners, a fluffy bow of pink tulle decorating the handle of the basket, and a delicious birthday cake reposed before the genial honoree, who was the recipient of the heartiest congratulations extended him by the following guests, who had the pleasure of being present at the delightful occasion, and who included Mr. and Mrs. Earl McKeever, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Fairchild, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Blue, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben George, Mr. and Mrs. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Keyes, Mrs. Sallie Braden, Mrs. Rhind's mother, Mrs. Reach, and Mr. and Mrs. John Rhind, all of North Glendale.

Mrs. L. C. Leeds of 900 Dryden street entertained at a prettily appointed luncheon last Thursday. Roses in profusion were used to decorate the attractive home and a full course luncheon was served by the charming hostess to the following guests: Mrs. Hattie Purcell, Mrs. J. B. Thomas, Mrs. H. C. Burg and Mrs. Willard Bott, all of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McMahan of 1016 Fairview avenue, with Mrs. McMahan's sister, Miss Beulah Duncan, were guests of Mr. James Colville of Pocatello, Idaho, who is at present stopping at the Hotel Alexandria, at the Orpheum last Saturday evening.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dorsey, who spent the winter months with their daughter, Mrs. J. E. Eckles of 920 North Central avenue, will be very glad to learn of their safe arrival at their home in Arborville, Nebr., where numerous relatives and friends gladly welcomed them.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Smith of Los Angeles were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. McMahan of 1016 Fairview avenue last Saturday.

Mrs. John Murphy of Maultman avenue was in North Glendale last Saturday looking after her property interests here.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Eckles of 920 North Central avenue entertained as their guests for the day Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. Omar L. Sharp and the doctor's mother, Mrs. J. Sharp, of West First street, Los Angeles.

Miss Barbara Mitchell of Kenneth road entertained with a pretty dancing party at La Ramada last Saturday evening, complimentary to Miss Alpha Clement of 1321 North Pacific avenue, who returned recently from an extended visit with relatives in Lindsay, California, and her house guest, Miss Hazel Hess, also of Lindsay. The affair was charming in every detail, the dining room having been cleared for dancing, was beautifully decorated with choice cut flowers and the porches where the luncheon tables were arranged were veritable bowers of roses. Delicious fruit punch was dispensed during the evening and a dainty luncheon was served. The delightful occasion was enjoyed by thirty-eight invited guests from Los Angeles, Occidental college and Glendale.

Miss Alpha Clement of 1321 North Pacific avenue is entertaining as her house guest, Miss Hazel Hess of Lindsay, Cal., who will remain here at least three weeks.

DR. FOX TONIGHT

The third of the series of sermon-lectures given by noted divines of Southern California under the auspices of the churches of Glendale as a climax to the Brown and Curry meetings will be held tonight in the high school auditorium. Dr. D. F. Fox of the First Congregational church of Pasadena will be the speaker and his theme will be "Christian Faith." This is one of the strong numbers of the course and as there was a capacity house at each of the former lectures it is expected that there will be a full attendance to greet Dr. Fox tonight. These lectures are free to the public and everyone is invited.

THE WORLD'S VASTNESS

Persons who were in Los Angeles Monday, witnessing the May Fiesta parade and the great crowd of on-lookers, got a faint idea of the vastness of this great world. Los Angeles is only one of many large cities in which it is possible for such crowds to assemble, and to multiply the several hundred thousand of people witnessing Monday's parade by the number of large cities and the aggregate population of the United States is greater than the ordinary mind can grasp.

In California the scenery is so beautiful that the longest driveway is the one usually chosen.

MAY DINNER PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Campbell entertained with a dinner party last Thursday evening at their beautiful foothill home, Ard-Eevin. The perfectly appointed table at which the dinner was served was centered with a large basket of Cecile Brunner roses and forget-me-nots, on the handle of which four streamers extended to smaller baskets filled with the same delicate blossoms. At the covers were corsage bouquets of baby roses and forget-me-nots for the ladies and boutonnières of the same for the men. The place cards were dainty box-shape affairs, and throughout the delicious dinner the May-basket idea was carried out as far as possible. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. John Hyde Braly, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Coombs Brand, Mr. and Mrs. Mattison Boyd Jones, Mr. and Mrs. William Putnam Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hulbert Toll, and the host and hostess.

There was music to while away an hour or two, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, pianist, and Mr. Julius Kranz, violinist, delighting the guests with their selections.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

In his sermon Sunday morning on "The Marks of Discipleship," Mr. Francis gave as one of the leading qualities of a true disciple that of sincerity. Of what use is our religion to us if we are not true to ourselves, as well as in our attitudes toward the world? This Christian grace of sincerity is one which is all too scarce in the lives of many professed Christians. If we could only feel that all the words uttered and promises made to us even by church members were absolutely true and from a sincere heart, what a difference it would make in all our lives!

One of the most touching incidents of what great influence a sincere life may yield, that the writer has ever heard, was related by Mr. Francis in the course of his remarks. It must have reached the hearts of all who were present.

The attendance at Bible school, as well as church, was unusually good for a rainy Sunday. It was fully three-fourths of normal. The men's and women's classes had an equal attendance of thirty, and were equal in the points of contest, although the women are still leading the race.

As Dr. Durfee, the preacher-doctor of this church, is beginning an evangelistic meeting in the Alvarado street Christian church in Los Angeles today, the regular Wednesday evening prayer meeting will be omitted this week and all who can will go, either by auto or trolley, to help boost the doctor's meeting. This little church is just south of Sunset boulevard on Alvarado street, which is only two or three blocks west of Lake Shore avenue. It is hoped that a large number will be able to go.

An all-day session of the Ladies' Aid will be held in the bungalow on Thursday. Bring your lunches.

On account of the lecture at the high school tonight, the regular monthly board meeting will be postponed till tomorrow evening. A full attendance of the deacons is especially urged.

The claim is that we should never look backward. However, we can see our own faults better by looking backward than we can by looking forward.

erally underestimated, for one must remember no machine is working for the student; he has to form these articles by eye and hand, which is undoubtedly the best training for any youth. I think, perhaps, you will agree with me when I state that no machine made hardware can take the place of forged trimmings in giving that pleasing effect to any article where applied. They will suggest enduring strength and are very adaptable to any position.

It is with no small amount of pride we speak of the machine shop of this school, which is a perfect picture of usefulness. The equipment consists of five lathes, one shaper, and two drill presses, work benches, auto pit, tool room run upon commercial lines; in fact, it is a shop that any school might be proud of.

The work in this department serves equally well for general educational purposes, and for the preparation for a profession or trade. To go into the question of its co-operative nature with other shop courses would take too much of my time, but we acknowledge the merits of other shops which the machine shop possesses; it still has one greater quality, that of supervision.

Some people have claimed it is the machine and not the boy that does the work. This will not stand for one moment, for while it is true that the machine does the work, it is the boy who has charge of the machine and who must see that it does its duty. Then this must necessarily imply an understanding of the construction and operation of the machine, an appreciation of the power that drives it, the general alignment and adjustment of all its parts. It presupposes an intelligent, cool, thoughtful mental attitude. It is here that thought must precede action, otherwise an expensive accident will be sure to happen. The machine is made to be the boy's servant, but it is a servant requiring the most careful direction, and the most constant and intelligent supervision. This servant under guidance is faithful in the exact performance of its work, but it cannot be trusted out of sight of its master. It is a servant that goes on a strike when the master becomes careless and inattentive. Therefore, the supervision required in the machine shop is of the highest educational value. It is here that any lack of mental or physical coordination in a boy's constitution is sure to be exposed. In the machine shop, as in other shops, the work is entirely individual and each boy is encouraged to do all he can in a set time, but quality rather than quantity is the chief concern. It is expected a great difference will occur in work done by different boys, but there is no end to the possibilities in this direction. The necessity for this step has been proven the world over, the demand for those boys that have had a complete vocational training is becoming very great. The practical and industrial character of the work in the machine shop, as well as the forge shop, is evident and is generally admitted.

This year we do not anticipate doing any more than getting a good start for next year, but at the close of next school year we shall show the people of Glendale and others that we have made good use of this equipment that has been placed for our use.

When the boy who by reason of ability and opportunity teaches the high school the essential nature of the process well begun in the grades should not change. It perhaps is still a process of keeping to the line between what he can do and what he cannot do, still a process of proper selection and adaptation. This adaptation will be made possible through intelligent differentiation. It will only mean a very careful study of the past development of our schools, and of the present demands. The suggestion of the introduction of the vocational or industrial school idea into our high school is not new if we consider the question from a generic point of view. Ever since the establishment of public high schools in this country, about seventy-five years ago, they have been undergoing a change, and this change has always been one of differentiation and specialization of function. Even the names which have been given to different groups of studies called "courses" indicate very clearly enough that these groups for different purposes and those purposes are very decidedly economic. Latin and Greek were at first placed in the curriculum because they were supposed to fit the students for service in the learned professions. Science was introduced to meet the demands of an era of scientific activity and invention. The commercial studies—typewriting, bookkeeping, stenography and office routine—were added to the curriculum in answer to the demands of trade and commerce.

With the growth of large cities came manual training to the motor activity which the absence of country life had deprived our boys, and to counteract the one-sided influences of education exclusively bookish. These facts in the history of secondary education furnish but one answer to the question as to whether the demand for industrial education should be met in the high school. In reality the problem is not so great as it appears. Inasmuch as the manual training already in our best high schools furnishes the kind of training needed—a training which certainly contains the underlying principles of many industries. We have only to add to the courses we now have by including more of the processes employed in the various trades. The selection of these processes must be carefully made with the assistance of practical men representative of the many industries. Along with this perhaps there will come more laxity in making out programs for pupils of varying ability and inclination, a flexibility amounting to programs which would be almost wholly academic or those exclusively manual. Perhaps our school principal and directors may see at some future date that it is just as legitimate to help a boy to a trade as it is to help him to a profession.

Every boy is entitled to all the learning he is capable of taking. This should be both mental and manual and should be made as practical as possible.

(This is the first of a series of four articles which will appear in The News in the near future in which Mr. Oliver will completely explain the work being done in the mechanical arts building.)

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. W. E. Edmonds brought to his congregation on Sunday morning a valuable message when he preached on "The Utility of the Bible." The text was that part of the 16th verse of 11 Timothy, "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable." The speaker initiated his discourse by declaring that the Bible is the most practical book in the world and quoted the words of the great missionary, Moffitt, who declared after a great experience in the wild places of the world, that all civilization hangs upon a single thread, and that is the Word of God, sever this thread and the world drops back into barbarism. The utility of the Bible is shown in numberless ways as a practical instructor and guide. It is concisely set forth in its own words, "The Word is Truth, and the Truth shall make you free." It is as practical as the yard stick, the pound weight or the peck measure. Its practical application to the needs of our daily life, is found in the ten commandments, the story of the Good Samaritan, the Sermon on the Mount and in the Golden Rule. It is profitable for faith and practice. It is the book that has kept the ship of state steadily upon its course and this government is fortunate in having at its head men whose faith and practice are based upon the Word of God. The Bible is the word of authority, there is no appeal from its decision. A man goes to the dictionary to see if he is correct in his use or understanding of a word; if he finds that he has been wrong and is a sensible man, he does not throw the book out of the window; he changes his opinion to conform to the book. So the Bible is a higher authority than any dictionary. If you find yourself in opposition to it, there is nothing for you to do but to turn around and be right. The soul cries out to God, "What must I do to be saved?" There are other books; there are fatal attempts to find some other standard of right and wrong; but here is the absolute word without an "if" in it, the only book in which you can find that "peace of God which passeth all understanding."

PERSONALS

H. P. Coker returned Saturday noon from a two days business trip to Fresno, Cal.

Miss Ruth Music, 435 South Louise street, resumed her duties at the Gold Fish cafe Monday after a short illness.

Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Peccoy of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who have been spending the winter in Glendale, left Sunday evening for their Iowa home.

The high school pupils are having a holiday today in order that they may view the Fiesta de las Flores parade and rodeo in Los Angeles today.

Visitors have been arriving in Los Angeles and vicinity the past few days by the thousands. The May fiesta and rodeo seem to be the great attractions.

J. F. Thompson, who has been employed by the Pulliam Undertaking company for the past several months, severed his connection with that firm Saturday.

Dr. Ira H. Durfee of 508 Brand boulevard is holding a revival meeting at the Alvarado street Christian church, Los Angeles, beginning Sunday evening.

The King Eight touring car owned and driven by J. A. Pirtle was the auto in which five members of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce rode in the May Fiesta parade Monday forenoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zeigler of St. Louis spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Brewer, 1415 Ivy street. Mrs. Zeigler is Mrs. Brewer's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Brewer leave Monday at 5 p. m. for San Francisco and from the Bay city will leave for their St. Louis home via Denver.

Mr. W. P. MacMullin left Glendale April 20th with a carload of young stock for the Antelope valley, where he already has a large herd on the range. Mr. MacMullin says that the valley is very prosperous and that the range and alfalfa never looked better. He also reports snow on the 26th inst.

Mrs. W. E. Edmonds and Mrs. H. R. Boyer were guests of Mrs. Dan Campbell at the last meeting of the Friday Morning club in Los Angeles, when a program of more than usual excellence was enjoyed. It was in the form of a festival of music, art and drama. These ladies had luncheon together and enjoyed hearing Carrie Jacobs-Bond and many other talented people.

HEALTH DEMONSTRATION

The regular weekly health demonstration will be given at the sanitarium Thursday afternoon at 2:30; subject, "Health and Beauty in Dress." Lecture by Dr. Wood-Comstock, followed by practical demonstration. All Glendale ladies cordially invited to be present. 22043

ENDEAVORERS CELEBRATE

The Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church spent Saturday afternoon and evening celebrating May day. Despite the rain clouds some twenty-five young people gathered at the church about 5:30 o'clock and busied themselves making and filling May baskets.

A dainty lunch was served by the young ladies about seven. Then began the march of distribution. Stopping long enough to sing a song and leave a basket of flowers, the band made numerous calls, visiting hospitals and homes. A ready reports have come from those visited full of thanks and appreciation for the remembrances and the good cheer.

KING'S HERALDS

The King's Heralds met Saturday afternoon with Glenn Moore at his home, 1614 West Colorado boulevard. Nearly every member of the organization was present and new officers for the coming six months were elected as follows: President, Ira Cleeland; secretary, Robert Copeland; treasurer, Henry Kivett. This is a bustling organization, ready for any good work at any time. Recently they met on the church lawn and waged war on the weeds. At Saturday's meeting it was voted to gather roses for the Glendale float and this was done, but as the roses were not called for, they were taken to the Tropico hospital, where they brought cheer to the patients.

TO ELECT OFFICERS

The last regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of the high school for the present school year will be held in the music room of the west building tomorrow afternoon (Tuesday) at 3:15 o'clock.

This is an important meeting for officers will be elected for next year and a new constitution adopted. The program will be as follows:

Mrs. Sloan will sing and give a reading.

There will be an interesting discussion on the important topic "What Should the High School Association Endeavor to Accomplish?" This topic will be discussed from the standpoint of the student by a student, from the standpoint of a teacher by a teacher, and from the standpoint of a parent by a parent.

All patrons of the high school are especially urged to attend this meeting.

MODERN LANGUAGE PLAYS

Saturday evening of this week the modern language classes (German and Spanish) of the Glendale Union high school will present their usual yearly plays. The evening's program will be supplemented by the orchestra and songs by the junior German class. The name of the German play is "Der Mieterschaft." Miss Field is directing the Spanish presentation, while Miss Darsie has the German players in hand.

with determined opposition on the part of the motor bus interests.

The senate defeated the bill providing that any person selling livestock thereby warrants that said livestock is sound and merchantable and free from contagious, infectious or chronic disease when so sold. This was known as Kehoe's David Harum bill. Senator Ben Rush opposed the bill, saying he was a farmer engaged in the horse raising business and that this would practically kill it. That there was no time limit and that an animal through colds or improper care might develop disease after being sold and yet this bill would permit the buyer to come back on the seller. This Kehoe disputed, but without avail, the senate defeating the bill by a vote of 19 to 10.

Senator Tyrrell raised a laugh by asking Senator Kehoe if his bill would cover the case of a red cow eating green grass and giving white milk from which yellow butter was made.

The next biggest fights promise to be those over Senator Owens' apprentice bill, which prohibits anyone from restricting, interfering with or preventing anyone from learning a useful or skilled trade, and the bill known as the Sutter and Yuba bypass bill. The people living on the lower reaches of the Sacramento are determined in their opposition to any measure that will permit a more free escape of flood waters from the upper basin until such time as the mouth of the Sacramento is properly "uncorked" to permit its escape.

According to a statement of intentions filed with the secretary of state the dries have decided to place two propositions on the 1916 ballot. One is intended to close all saloons in the state on January 1, 1918, and the other prohibits the sale, manufacture or distribution of liquor after January 1, 1920. It is said that these propositions will be placed on the ballot in an effort to reconcile both the radicals and conservatives among the dries.

The Childs impeachment case is still dragging along before the assembly judiciary committee and opinion is divided as to the probability of his going before the senate for impeachment, many claiming that not sufficient evidence has been adduced to bring the superior judge of Del Norte before the bar of the senate.

Every effort is being made by both houses to carry out the resolution to adjourn sine die May 6th. Each house is now holding a night session. The senate is practically up with its file, but the assembly is several hundred bills behind, and it is extremely doubtful if its work will be completed before the 10th or 12th, and even then a number of bills will be left in committee—but they will not be missed.

ENTERTAINS WITH MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

The Misses Elizabeth Lang and Eva Black, two Glendale brides-to-be, were charmingly entertained with a miscellaneous shower by Mrs. J. L. Flint, 142 South Central avenue, on Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5:30. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Joseph L. Stagner, Mrs. A. N. Beaman and the Misses Harriet Wells, Katherine Lewis and Mattie Belle Provolt. The other guests present were Mrs. Richard H. Wells, Miss Cecilia Wilson, Misses Olga and Athena Pirt, Arline Hallihan, Ethel Land, Bess Provolt, Lillian Mills, Irene Read, Bess Phillips, Maisie McCann, Grace Cramp-ton, Gertrude Champlain, Pauline Edith Foss, Dorothy Smith, Clara and Sholtz, Clara Provolt, Ethel Read, Charlotte Read, Edith Foss, Dorothy Smith, Clara Read, Birdie and Lillian Shropshire, Lynn Coles, Roberta Coles and Mrs. C. Wnebbon of Glendale. Out of town guests were Dr. M. Louise Davis, Edna Buggeln and Edna Dewey of Los Angeles. The color scheme was pink, the house being profusely decorated with pink roses. The guests were entertained with five hundred, Miss Cecilia Wilson winning the highest prize and Miss Birdie Shropshire the second. Late in the afternoon a dainty two course luncheon was served, the table decorations being in pink and white. After the luncheon the shower was presented and many were the exclamations of delight at the large array of pretty and delightful gifts. The Misses Lang and Black will long remember Saturday's shower as one of the most delightful social affairs given in their honor.

The Glendale shining parlors, located in Hanning's barber shop on Brand boulevard, has opened new quarters in the north side of the building, where they are now fully equipped to do first class shining quickly. This is now the largest and best equipped shine stand in the city. The number is 332 Brand boulevard.

STORK BRINGS MAY BASKET

A May basket in the form of a twelve-pound bouncing baby boy was left by the stork at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jens Askeland of Burbank on Saturday, May 1. Mrs. Askeland was formerly Miss Lola Pratt of Tropic and her many friends will be glad to know that Jens, Jr., and his mother are both doing nicely.

VALLEY VIEW

Alex F. LaCom of Salt Lake City is here accompanied by his wife and baby to visit his mother, brothers and sister on Oak street for a few days. He is a prosperous merchant of the Utah metropolis, owning two large confectionery stores.

K. E. Cannon, wife and four little daughters moved here recently from El Paso, Texas, and are now living at 1555 Penn street. Mr. Cannon is a relative of Uncle Joe Cannon of Danville, Ills, whom he resembles greatly.

A. L. Feliz and wife will move to a small ranch near Ivanhoe this week. They have rented their house at 1657 Vine street to Arch Moore and wife.

Mrs. Jennie Wiley, an aged lady who nearly a year ago fell and broke her left hip, is back again at her own home, 1548 Vine street. She can get around slowly with the aid of a cane and in spite of intense suffering for many months is still brave and hopeful.

Mrs. Mollie McMurray has moved into her new house at 1437 Lomita avenue.

Chas. Sissman and wife, who have lived at 1435 West Colorado for a year past, moved Saturday to a house on Arden avenue, so as to be near their place of employment in the Glendale laundry.

E. Moffatt of 1510 Hawthorne street has just finished the remodeling of his residence, having had it weather-boarded, a room added and paint and paper applied without and within.

C. Vigus and wife have moved into the rear house at 1507 West Fifth street.

A family by the name of Kester have moved in at 1570 Penn street.

LITERARY SECTION

The literary section of the Tuesday Afternoon club will be entertained at the home of Mrs. F. H. Cassell, 215 North Kenwood, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The program will be unusually interesting. In place of the roll call and responses with current events, Mrs. Wayland Brown will give "War Brides." There will be a review of "Pollyanna" by Mrs. Hutchinson, reviews of "Anne of Green Gables" and "Anne of Avonlea" by Mrs. Harmon; review of "Eyes of the World" by Mrs. Weaver, and Miss Heron will give a selected reading.

Miss Mary Crumacker of LaPorte, Ind., niece of Congressman Crumacker, is a guest of Mrs. Harold B. Morris of Pioneer drive. Miss Crumacker and Mrs. Morris were former classmates and also enjoyed a European trip together.
